

Early Journal Content on JSTOR, Free to Anyone in the World

This article is one of nearly 500,000 scholarly works digitized and made freely available to everyone in the world by JSTOR.

Known as the Early Journal Content, this set of works include research articles, news, letters, and other writings published in more than 200 of the oldest leading academic journals. The works date from the mid-seventeenth to the early twentieth centuries.

We encourage people to read and share the Early Journal Content openly and to tell others that this resource exists. People may post this content online or redistribute in any way for non-commercial purposes.

Read more about Early Journal Content at <http://about.jstor.org/participate-jstor/individuals/early-journal-content>.

JSTOR is a digital library of academic journals, books, and primary source objects. JSTOR helps people discover, use, and build upon a wide range of content through a powerful research and teaching platform, and preserves this content for future generations. JSTOR is part of ITHAKA, a not-for-profit organization that also includes Ithaka S+R and Portico. For more information about JSTOR, please contact support@jstor.org.

THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW.

VOL. CXXI.

---

Tros Tyriusque mihi nullo discrimine agetur.

---

BOSTON:
JAMES R. OSGOOD AND COMPANY,
LATE TICKNOR & FIELDS, AND FIELDS, OSGOOD, & Co.
1875.

COPYRIGHT, 1875.

BY JAMES R. OSGOOD & Co.

UNIVERSITY PRESS: WELCH, BIGELOW, & Co.,
CAMBRIDGE.

INDEX

TO THE

HUNDRED AND TWENTY-FIRST VOLUME

OF THE

North American Review.

- Ampères*, The Two, article on, 315-336 — naturalness and charm of their correspondence, 315 — André-Marie Ampère's marriages and literary labors, 316-322 — Jean-Jacques Ampère's love for Madame Récamier, and his work, 322-336 — Mlle. Cuvier, 330 — his acquaintance with Goethe, 332 — with Tocqueville, 334 — genius of the Ampères for friendship, 336.
- Bancroft*, H. H., his Native Races of the Pacific States of North America, Vols. II. and III., critical notice of, 442-450.
- Boissier*, Gaston, his La Religion Romaine d'Auguste aux Antonins, critical notice of, 206-210.
- Bonnemère*, Eugène, his Histoire des Payans, critical notice of, 202-206.
- Burckhardt*, Jacob, his Cultur der Renaissance in Italien, 155-190.
- Capponi*, Gino, his Storia della Repubblica di Firenze, critical notice of, 450-456.
- Chatterton's* Poetical Works, with Skeats's Essay on the Rowley Poems, critical notice of, 234-240.
- Conflict of Studies*, article on, 86-113 — the present age sceptical, 86 — the deficiencies of University education, 86, 87 — mathematical text-books, 88 — limitation of view in Mr. Todhunter's essays, 89 — "examination value" of studies, 90-92 — value of interesting studies, 95 — his views, 95, 96 — limits of value in mathematical studies, 96-100 — the objective value of a science, 100-102 — the examination system and cramming, 102-106 — whether great memory and sound judgment are compatible, 107-112 — power of attention, 112 — importance of understanding clearly the true ends of education and its most direct means, 113.
- Constitutional Reform*, Some Late Efforts at, article on, 1-36 — movements for reform since 1870, 1 — evils at which the new constitutions were directed, 2-4 — constitutional amendments in various States, 4-12 — Pennsylvania's new Constitution, 15-18 — bribery in the Legislature, 21-25 — provisions as to taxation, 26 — provisions relating to corporations, 27-32 — evils which there has been no attempt to meet, 33 — universal suffrage, 34 — superficial public instruction, 34 — Illinois Constitution of 1870, 35 — the new Constitution of New York, 36.
- Digby*, Kenelm Edward, his Introduction to the History of the Law of Real Property, critical notice of, 429-433.
- Ebert*, Adolf, his Allgemeine Geschichte der Literatur des Mittelalters in Abendlande, critical notice of, 459-461.
- Geographical and Geological Surveys*, article on, 37-85 — geography and geographical exploration fashionable, 37 — topographical surveys, their value and methods, 39-48 — topographical maps, 44-48 — methods of preparing maps in Europe, 48-51 — progress in geographical work in the United States, 53 — imperfection of geographical knowledge thirty years ago, 54 — Expeditions of Captains Lewis and Clarke, 54, 55 — Major Pike's exploration, 55, 56 — Major Long's expedition, 56 — Bonneville's expedition, 57 — Nicollet's services, 57 — Fremont's explorations, 58 — emigration to the Pacific shore, 59 — surveys across the continent under the direction of the Secretary of War, 60-65 — the United States Coast Survey, its origin and work, 65-69 — the survey of the Lakes, 69 — division of the States before the Revolutionary war, 70 — the object of the land surveys, 71-73 — Massachusetts the first State to initiate a topographical survey, 75-78 — surveys for military defences, 79 — the Fortieth Parallel survey, 80 — topography of the western side of the Continent, 81 — survey of the Colorado River, 82 — lack of intelligence and system in geographical work in America, 83-85. Second article on, 270-314 — imperfect popular appreciation of value

- of geological surveys, 271 — distrust of geological theories, 272 — practical side of geology, 273 — comparison between geology and astronomy, 273 — governments rarely foster investigations for promotion of science, but with a view to immediate practical results, 275 — uncertainty and fascination of metal mining, 276 — object of government interference to prevent useless efforts and waste of mineral resources, 277, 278 — method and policy of France concerning mining and geological operations, 278 — 282 — Ecole des Mines, and Polytechnic School, 279 — Annales des Mines, 280 — government supervision of all mining, 280 — French Mining Engineers, — first geological survey, 281 — the map made, 281 — Prussian management of mining and geological explorations, 282, 283 — English, 283, 284 — record of the United States government, 285 — 290 — leases, 285 — let-alone policy pursued in regard to California gold-mines, 286 — recent legislation, 287 — collection of mining statistics, 288 — mining resources of the country rapidly developed notwithstanding wretched mismanagement, 290 — William Maclure's surveys and maps, 291 — Eaton's survey of route of Erie Canal, 292 — Featherstonhaugh's imperfect survey, 293 — Owen's report on lead region of Wisconsin in 1840, 293 — Hayden's Geographical and Geological Survey of the Territories, 296, 297 — value of the volume of "Mining Industry," 297 — no thorough geological survey yet made of any State, 298 — partial surveys made in several States, 298 — 303 — the Carolinas and Massachusetts, 299 — value of the surveys of New York and Pennsylvania, 300 — Prof. James Hall's "Palæontology of New York," 301 — Pennsylvania, 302 — Virginia and Western States, 303 — imperfect character but positive benefit of surveys already made, 304 — 306 — Massachusetts, — report of the State Board of Education, 306 — 314 — wealth of the State, 307 — object and benefits of a proper geological survey, 308 — crudeness of the State Board's report, 309 — 311 — Massachusetts less needs a geological survey than almost any other State, 311 — how one can be made of great service, 313.
- Green, J. R.*, his A Short History of the English People, critical notice of, 216 — 224.
- Gregorovius, Ferdinand*, his Lucrezia Borgia, critical notice of, 229 — 234.
- Hodgson, B. H.*, his Essays on the Language, Literature, and Religion of Nepal and Tibet, critical notice of, 461 — 465.
- Ingersoll, Charles*, his Fears for Democracy, critical notice of, 224 — 228.
- Kinglake, A. W.*, his History of the Invasion of the Crimea, critical notice of, 408 — 422.
- Laband, Paul*, his Die vermögensrechtlichen Klagen nach den Sächsischen Rechtsquellen des Mittelalters, critical notice of, 210 — 216.
- Loersch, Hugo*, and Hugo Schröder, their Urkunden zur Geschichte des deutschen Rechtes, critical notice of, 193 — 19.
- Mommson, Theodor*, his Röm'sches Staatsrecht, critical notice of, 431 — 436.
- Municipal Government, An Episode in*, third article on, 113 — 155 — the Ring's halcyon days, 113 — essential features of the charter of 1870, 114 — "job" on the municipal indebtedness, 116 — Board of Audit, 117 — the amount paid from the city treasury, 118 — the division of the spoils, 119 — the administration of the several departments of the city government, 120 — cost of maintaining Central Park, 121, 122 — Mr. Sweeny as a man of culture, 122, 123 — Tweed's administration of Department of Public Works, 124 — Board of Education, 124 — course of political events which succeeded the organization of the city government under the Ring charter, 127, 128 — marœuvres of the Ring satchems, 129 — the Democratic State Convention at Rochester, 129 — 133 — "Tweed's lambs," 130 — preliminary meeting of the chief wire-pullers, 130 — mass meetings of the Young Democracy, 134, 135 — other measures of the Ring, 136 — the increase of debt, 137, 138 — the masterstroke of Mr. Sweeny, 138, 139 — the election, 140 — W. S. Copeland's appointment, and his examination of the accounts, 141 — Watson's death, 143 — rumors of the existence of certain copies of municipal accounts supposed to be fraudulent, 144 — the formation of the Bar Association, 145, 146 — the correspondence between Samuel Bowles and David Dudley Field, 147 — impeachment of Mr. Field, 148 — public opinion roused, 149 — New York "Times" and "Harper's Weekly" assailing the Ring, 149 — 153 — Nast's cartoons, 149, 150 — Hall's letter to the "Times," 152 — the whitewashing committee, 153 — Mr. Dexter A. Hawkins's report upon the city finances, 153, 154 — the Copeland transcripts handed over to Mr. Jones, 154 — part of the accounts published in the "Times" on the 20th of July, 1871, 155.
- Nietzsche, Friedrich*, his Unzeitgemässe Betrachtungen, critical notice of, 190 — 193.
- Palfrey, John G.*, his History of New England, Vol. IV., critical notice of, 473 — 480.
- Pater, Rio*, and Burckhardt, article on, 155 — 190 — Ruskin as a dictator on questions of art, 156 — æsthetic appreciation in France, in America, and England, 156 — Mr. Pater's deficiencies, 156 — the secret of his influence, 157 — his merits, 158 — the loose sense given to the term

- Renaissance by Mr. Pater, 159 — Pico della Mirandola, 160 — Mr. Pater's characterization of the fifteenth century, 161 — Sandro Botticelli and his works, 162 — Michael Angelo, 163, 164 — Leonardo da Vinci, 165, 166 — Joachim du Belley, 166 — the metaphysical and ethical views of Mr. Pater, 167 — 171 — M. Rio's exaltation of the Roman Catholic Church, 172 — his style and tone, 172, 173 — his mediævalism, 174 — the dominating point of the religious systems of various nations according to M. Rio, 174 — his review of Grecian art, 174 — his Romanistic interpretation of the Middle Ages, 175, 176 — his views about the causes of the revival of art, 176 — the jubilee of the year 1300, 177 — his study of the Italian schools of art, 177 — Savonarola, 177, 178 — the Estes of Ferrara, 178, 179 — the schools of Umbria, 179 — the epilogue of his work, 180 — monotony of his views and sentiments, 181 — broadness of view and other peculiarities of Jacob Burckhardt's works, 181, 182 — complexity of influences, 181 — historical aspects of the time, 182, 183 — opportunities of individual development, 184 — features of the time, 184, 185 — destruction of classic monuments, 185 — Grecian letters, 186 — voyages of discovery, 187 — the panoramic view presented by M. Burckhardt, 187, 188 — effects and tendencies of the Renaissance, 189 — M. Burckhardt's impartiality and insight, 190.
- Political Economy*, The Method and Province of, article on, 241 — 270 — inadequacy of the term political economy, 241 — confusion among writers, its principal cause, 242 — common criticism on Ricardo's theory of rent, 242 — a real science of political economy, 243 — 245 — leading part played by human volition, 246 — 249 — fundamental differences between the operations of nature and human acts, 249 — 255 — laws of production and consumption, 256 — the industry of a community determinable a priori, 257 — effect of capital, 257 — illustration how a duty on iron affects the interests of the community, 258 — criticism of Prof. Cairnes's admission, that mathematical methods cannot be applied successfully to economic investigations, 260 — various conclusions stated, 262 — political economy as a science has nothing to do with moral or philanthropic considerations, 264 — 266 — relation of political economy to protection, 267 — money and banking, 268 — the Malthusian theory, 269 — sociology and political economy should be kept distinct, 269.
- Rio, A. F., on Christian Art, 155 — 190.
- Sherman, Gen. William T., Memoirs of, article on, 337 — 365 — value of Sherman's and Johnston's works, 337, 338 — Sherman's reason for writing, 338 — his style, 339 — his alert common-sense, 340 — coolness, 341 — his resolution and energy, 342 — determination, 343 — readiness to promote harmony, 344 — frankness and candor, 345 — sketch of his earlier years, 348 — enters service in civil war, 350 — battle of Shiloh, 351 — 353 — Haines's Bluffs repulse, 353 — battle of Chattanooga, 354 — Sherman succeeds Grant in command of Military Department of the Mississippi, 355 — the march and fight to Atlanta, 356 — 359 — to the Sea, 359, 360 — value of the Military Lessons, 361 — the awarding of praise and blame, 362 — Sherman's meagre record as a fighter, 363 — deficiencies in his soldierly equipment, 364.
- State Universities*, article on, 365 — 408 — great value of Mr. Andrew Ten Brook's work, 365 — no valid foundation for the public opinion that only the common schools, not the higher institutions, should be supported by the State, 366 — 374 — differences between small colleges and large ones, 370 — 373 — Harvard University, its origin and early support, 374 — 377 — William and Mary College, 377 — 379 — Yale, 379 — 381 — Maryland Colleges, 382 — 384 — system urged by Jefferson in Virginia, 384 — South Carolina College, 385 — changes in educational matters after the colonial period, — denominational colleges multiplied, 387 — standard of scholarship lowered, 389 — proportionate number of students diminished, 390 — and of college-bred men in public stations, 391 — history of the University of Michigan, 393 — 408 — act establishing a "Catholepistemiad," 394 — wisdom of Superintendent Pierce's management, 396 — University emancipated from control of Legislature, 399 — Governor Mason's saving veto, 403, 404 — the University an integral part of the educational system of the State, 405.
- Studies*, Conflict of, 86 — 113.
- Tennyson, Alfred, his Queen Mary, critical notice of, 422 — 429.
- Thompson, Robert Ellis, his Social Science and National Economy, critical notice of, 465 — 473.
- Todhunter's Conflict of Studies, reviewed, 86 — 113.
- Universities, State, 365 — 408.
- Walker, Francis A., his Statistical Atlas of the United States, critical notice of, 437 — 442.
- Wundt, Wilhelm, his Grundzüge der physiologischen Psychologie, critical notice of, 195 — 201.